Introduction

Official statement from client:

I saw what I thought was a cloud on the distant horizon. However, it kept disappearing and reappearing, so I started to film it. It appeared to change shape. My phone appeared to lose focus as it would appear and disappear, making it hard for me to focus in. (Vid supplied via youtube). Video was later removed for data protection.

Findings

Official statement of findings:

Okay I have found some very interesting and alarming at the same time evidence of you here for activity in the town we are the footage was took the wank will be below there has been multiple sightings of UFOs and more.

This case has been a very interesting case no doubt in my mind that what ever it was in my mind was a UAP I have seen many videos of these kind of things and I can honestly say this is one of the best pieces of footage I have seen and a very long time the area holds a lot of interesting places for instance there is a military base only 40 km away from the area then we have multiple sightings of UFOs over the last 20 years not to mention the Bigfoot sightings to and the area I would suggest an investigation of the area obviously not right now due to the Covid and due to other things but I will keep it open to an investigation of some kind in the near future the person that took the footage has witnessed multiple UFOs and other strange things in the area I would agree that this footage is real and it is some type of craft with some kind of cloaking device of some kind. – Agent *****

After taking a closer look at the footage a couple things came to mind. First off, it almost feels like this craft is having some sort of mechanical failure which is causing this "phase in, phase out" appearance. If this is in fact a cloaking device, or a hyperdrive for lack of better word (something the craft would use to achieve multidimensional travel), chances are there is going to be heat given off by the craft as it is shifting.

Let me explain.

The craft seems to be flying low altitude, possibly has been stationary for a bit and there was a collection of moisture that is common with just about any sort of air travel. When the craft first disappears, a cloud forms behind it like condensation trails of airplanes. When it reappears, cloud is gone. In order for the craft to disappear heat would be given off as it started to shift, exact conditions would vary due to a number of factors but the heat would be the only constant. It is anomalies like this that investigators from FBI documents to speculate that it may be possible to build some sort of radar to detect this very anomaly. To reference pop culture, think of the scene from "Thor: The Dark World" when Natalie Portman is freaking out as a device she has to detect Thor coming to Earth via the Bifrost was signalling his potential arrival.

To the average person that would be standing behind it, they would feel a burst of air akin to walking into an air-conditioned building during a hot day. However one standing too close to these sorts of craft could find themselves physically injured with nasty burns, potential radiation poisoning, and maybe even cancer. – Agent
